

Claims Kaiser Sought Group To Make Planes, "Good Profit"

Washington, July 30 (AP) — Glenn L. Martin said today that Henry J. Kaiser proposed in July 1942, the formation of a six-company combine to manufacture 500 flying boats "at a good profit" on a government order which Kaiser said he alone could get.

Martin, Baltimore aircraft manufacturer, told the Senate War Investigating committee that Kaiser, wartime shipbuilder, approached him with this proposition. It was some time later, Martin said, that Kaiser obtained a government contract with Howard Hughes to build three 400-ton cargo planes.

"Sought Merger"

The committee is now holding hearings here in an effort to determine what were the circumstances of the award of $40,000,000 in plane contracts to Kaiser and Hughes, and why no plane in flying condition has been delivered under an $18,000,000 contract for the three flying boats.

As the hearings were resumed, with Martin in the witness chair, Hughes, Hollywood film producer and airplane designer, issued a statement in California asserting that the investigation is an attempt to "coerce" him into agreeing to a merger of Trans World Airlines with Juan Trippe's Pan American Airways. Hughes has an extensive interest in TWA.

Hughes declared that Senator Brewster (R-Maine), chairman of the Senate group, once offered to "call off" the investigation if Hughes would agree to the merger.

Shown Hughes' statement, Brewster commented that he did not intend to "engage in running controversy" with Hughes.

U. S. Seeking New Plan To Beat Russian Balkan Veto

Washington, July 30 (AP)—The United States has protested to Russia against Soviet removal of former German and Italian assets from the defeated Balkan states—Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, July 30 (AP)—Russia's veto of a United Nations watchdog commission for the troubled Greek border sent United States officials on a hunt today for some new American maneuver.

Herschel V. Johnson, this country's spokesman in the Security Council argument over the Greek case, was summoned to the State Department for top level consultations.

Johnson told reporters in New York after the veto action that "we are not going to let the thing go by default."

One possibility known to be under consideration here would have the effect of going outside the United Nations in order to put international observers in Greece. According to this plan, Greece would invite Security Council members individually to send observers to the country.

Want U.N. Control

While both the United States and Britain are known to have given this idea some favorable study, authorities made clear that the American government would greatly prefer to keep the whole Greek case within the United Nations.

Hence the line of action considered most probable is for the United States to make some new proposal for Security Council action, on the basis that Greek troubles with Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria have reached the point of disturbing world peace and therefore require decisive action by the U.N.

The Russian veto was not unexpected here.

In fact, with three of the Soviet satellite countries involved in aiding the Greek Communist guerrillas who are trying to overthrow the Athens government, officials said any other Soviet course would have been hard to imagine.

Reds Flaunt Unity

However, until the veto finally was invoked yesterday, State Department authorities kept open a hope that the Soviet Union might simply have abstained.

85 Degrees

The temperature in Gettysburg reached an official 85 degrees before noon today and was expected to go higher, with no relief in sight, at least for another 24 hours. Elsewhere in the county it was also hot. The heat and humidity were alleviated somewhat by a breeze.

Today's government weather forecast predicted fair and warm weather tonight, and partly cloudy and warmer temperatures Thursday.

LINCOLN PAPER GIVES LIGHT ON ADDRESS HERE

When the Lincoln papers were opened in the Library of Congress last Saturday, one document, more than any other, stood out as shedding light on what the Civil War president meant in his reference in the Gettysburg Address, delivered here November 19, 1863, to government, of, by and for the people, according to Carl Sandburg, noted Lincoln authority, whose articles on the Lincoln papers are appearing in The Baltimore Sun, The Philadelphia Inquirer and other newspapers.

"Parts of it undoubtedly will go into school readers and textbooks as having political counsel in the conduct of a democracy," says Mr. Sandburg. "Both Nicolay and Hay recorded in notebook and diary a somewhat like conversational utterance in the same period," Sandburg continues.

John George Nicolay and John Milton Hay were secretaries of the President and wrote a life of Lincoln which has been the standard biography of the president.

Mr. Sandburg continues: "In the manuscript from Lincoln's own hand, however, we have the idea wrought out more completely and with an exactitude beyond doubt or question. Four pages of manuscript and a small galley proof sheet identical in style with that of his first inaugural address struck off in Springfield constitute the document."

"The President-elect had left his home in Springfield, Ill., for a visit with friends in Kentucky—and to sound out feeling in that significant border slave State which never did secede and which sent its many thousands of troops in both the Union and Confederate armies."

Faces Specific Situation

"It would seem that he wrote out a speech for Kentuckians that his sense of timing told him not to deliver in its entirety as written. Aside from whatever parts of it he may have delivered, what we have now is Lincoln's own version of his personal theory as to the course of public conduct rightly to be followed by a minority-elected president of a republic."

"In the first half of this speech he is dealing with the specific situation of his own hour a few weeks before he was to be inaugurated President, saying:

"I am grateful for the opportunity (sic) your invitation affords me to appear before an audience of my native state. During the present winter it has been greatly pressed upon me by many patriotic citizens Kentuckians among others, that I could in my position, by a word, restore peace to the country—but what word?"

"I have many words already before the public; and my position was given me on the faith of those words—is the desired word to be confirmatory of these; or must it be contradictory to them? If the for—"

Granite 4-H Club Meets; 10 Present

A meeting of the Granite 4-H club was held at the home of Anna Snider Monday evening. Ten members were present. Miss Mildred Tomblin, home economics extension representative in Adams county, and the local leader, Mrs. Snider, were present.

The club will present its project at the county round-up which will be held at Gettysburg high school on Tuesday, August 26.

While sewing on their present project the members sang and played games.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Dorothy Klinefelter on Wednesday, August 6.

Denied Haven In Palestine, Jews Scorn Landing In France

Port-De-Bouc, France, July 30 (AP)—Port and Consular officials looked to London today to learn the next move in the odyssey of some 4,500 Jews who were turned back from Palestine and refused to land in France.

The refugees, intercepted by the British off Palestine July 18 after a voyage from Sète, France, were brought to this tiny Mediterranean port, 30 miles west of Marseille, yesterday aboard the British transports Ocean Vigour, Empire Rival and Runnymede Park.

British officials on hand for the arrival of the vessels noted what they termed a "collective vote" of the Jews to remain aboard. They said they would report the situation to London.

French authorities already had asserted that they would not force any Jews to disembark, and one responsible British official here declared that use of violence to clear the ships was unthinkable.

Announces For Office In 1951

Adams county has a candidate who wants to be sheriff, but will not run for office until 1951.

In a display advertisement appearing elsewhere in The Gettysburg Times today, Charles F. Harner Gettysburg R. 1, announces that he will seek the nomination four years hence.

Harner, who filed a Republican petition to run this year and withdrew it Tuesday, announced that he was compelled to give up his aspirations for the nonce because he is holding a civil service position and is prohibited from engaging in politics by the Hatch act.

32 GETTYSBURG BOYS, GIRLS IN ATHLETIC MEET

Thirty-two Junior Police boys and girls took part in an all-day athletic program at Columbia Tuesday as the guests of the Columbia Playground Association. William Ridinger, former Gettysburg high school coach, is in charge of the six Columbia playgrounds composing the association.

The Junior Police baseball team dropped an 8-2 decision to the Columbia All Stars while the basketball team lost a 33-17 decision. The local boys' volleyball team won two of three games, 15-8, 11-15 and 11-0. The girls also won their volleyball contest 21-15, 11-21 and 21-17.

In softball the Gettysburg girls won a 12-10 decision, tabbing two runs in the final inning to break a 10-10 tie.

Boxing Bout

A highlight of the day's program was the boxing meet which consisted of four two-round bouts of two-minute rounds. Columbia won the match, three bouts to one. Paul Howard, 130, won the locals' only victory in the opener with a technical knockout in the second round over George Sims. Bob Shetter, 155, lost to Jesse Ellis by a technical knockout in the second and James Mellas, 142, lost on a decision to Joe Sweikert.

Clyde Myers, 170, Fairfield, was knocked out by George Smaling with 30 seconds remaining in the second round. Myers was unconscious periodically for 45 minutes. He was taken to a Columbia physician who reported the youngster fully recovered after treatment.

Borough Officer Albert L. Wolford was in charge of the baseball, boxing and boys' volleyball teams. Officer Kenneth Tanney was in charge (Please Turn to Page 8)

FEARS FOOD IN DAUPHIN PRISON

Ed Sanders, Littlestown, was sentenced to 15 days in jail Tuesday night by Justice of the Peace Claude Straley, New Oxford, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, despite his assertions that "I'll never get home again if you send me to that Dauphin county jail."

Sheriff John E. Millhimes, who removed Sanders and Clarence Wagaman, Gettysburg, in the Dauphin county jail after their arrests Saturday night by New Oxford police to await the hearing and who took the two men from Harrisburg to New Oxford for Tuesday's hearings said that Sanders told the justice that he did not expect to live if he "has to eat that Harrisburg food for 15 days."

Despite the pleas the sentence of 15 days was given when Sanders could not pay a fine of $10 and costs. Wagaman paid the fine and costs on his own case.

AUTO DEALERS TO HEAR TALK ON 'SAFETY'

Secret Jap Report On Atomic Bombing Of Hiroshima Found

By FRANK L. WHITE Tokyo, July 30 (AP)—A hitherto unpublished Japanese official report on the atomic bombing of Hiroshima in 1945 says that thousands who apparently survived the awesome blast began dropping as they fled the flaming city.

I have just seen the only known extant copy of this report, which also discloses that Japanese scientists quickly guessed that an atomic bomb had hit Hiroshima and that uranium was the agent used.

The compilation of this report was begun by experts on the scene the day the bomb hit on that historic August 6, and, when surrender came, the Japanese high command ordered it destroyed.

But a Japanese officer who helped compile it saved a copy along with photographs. I discovered the photographs at Kure 10 days ago and that led down a trail which at last uncovered the report itself.

This supersecret report to the high command in Tokyo said that all persons within range of the blinding flash were, so stunned that even antiaircraft battery gunners forgot to shoot as they marveled at the monstrous white cloud mushrooming over the city.

Immediately after the blast, thousands of those who escaped a direct scorching or injury from flying debris began to suffer from a strange sickness, the report continued. Although unmarked, they began falling while trying to get out of the city.

The Japanese noted that the bomb caused very few fires except in the forest on the hills behind Hiroshima. They attributed the fire which raged through shattered houses in the center of the city to such causes as electrical shorts and overturned cooking fires.

Pays $10 Fine On Code Violation

Walter Winterbottom, Conshohocken, Pa., paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Martin Walter, Biglerville R. 1, on a charge of failing to yield the right of way, state police here said today. Winterbottom was involved in an accident on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road on July 3.

An officer of the Gettysburg substation on his way to Harrisburg Tuesday arrested Phyllis G. Eagle, Middlestown, Pa., for going through a red light at Camp Hill. The charge was filed with a Cumberland county justice of the peace.

They Like Gettysburg

Gettysburg has pleasant memories of Col. E. W. Timberlake and his fine Coast Artillery battery that took part in the Longstreet Memorial dedication in 1941. Members of Battery G, 71st regiment evidently have equally pleasant recollections of Gettysburg.

Tuesday Joseph N. Cherico, of 940 West 18th street, Erie, Pennsylvania, fulfilled a long cherished wish when he returned here for his first visit since 1941—on his honeymoon.

"This is a swell place," Cyclorama attendants quote Mr. Cherico as declaring. "I've been talking about coming back for six years." Mrs. Cherico was equally enthusiastic.

The regiment that paraded here, 1,800 strong on July 2, 1941, was disbanded, he said, soon after the outbreak of war, and he served with an airborne unit in Burma and India. Colonel Timberlake, now a brigadier general, distinguished himself in the European Theater of War.

Earl P. and Martha A. Green, Freedom township, have sold their home at Marsh Creek Heights, in Freedom township, to Raymond J. and Amelia M. Schaler, Richmond Hill, Long Island, N. Y., another property transfer shows. The consideration shown on the deed is $8,500.

Neveah A. and Evelyn L. Crouse, doing business as I. H. Crouse and Sons, have sold two properties on Lumber street in Littlestown, one to Norman J. and Emily L. Hahn, Littlestown, and another to Raymond J. and Anita Marie Hahn, other deeds reveal.

FEW CONTESTS IN PRIMARIES; SET UP BALLOT

Clerks of the Adams county Election board, who conducted a drawing Monday afternoon to determine the position candidates will have on the ballots in the September primaries, found their work fairly light with contests existing in only a few of the more than 300 posts to be filled.

"In only six districts was there more than one candidate for Republican nominations and the Democrats had contests for posts only in two districts."

The results of the drawings in the local districts in the order of their positions* on the ballot were as follows:

Republican Bendersville, councilmen, Theodore Beamer, Robert S. Darone, Biglerville, councilmen, Earle M. Garretson, Harry P. Geiselman, John Deardorff, Fremont W. Weigle, Fairfield, justice of the peace, Roger D. Myers, H. L. Harbaugh; councilmen, Russell M. Summers, J. Howard Reindollar, Harper C. Hiner.

Village Sinking; Sidewalks, Buildings, Pavements Bulge

Welch, W. Va., July 30 (AP)—Welch tottered today on the rim of the earth, and the 6,000-odd inhabitants hoped their homes were not being sucked under the soil.

Torn sidewalks, ruptured buildings and buckled pavements showed the effects of the slow earth movement which has quickened in recent months.

Mayor L. E. Rogers guessed an underground stream might be to blame. He has told the city council that by listening at a wall at the rear of the Pocahontas theater, one can hear running water.

Another theory was that, in years past, coal had been mined beneath this southern West Virginia coal center, weakening the city's foundations; but there were no charts to back up this suggestion.

Officials, pondering the fate of their city, were considering what

Wanted: 100 Rooms

WANTED: Rooms for 100 veterans who will be students at Gettysburg college beginning in September.

This is the appeal that has come from Gettysburg college authorities today. With the enrollment climbing to between 1,250 and 1,300, more than double the normal student body of prewar years, the college is in dire need of accommodations for these veterans.

The rooms must be furnished. Those having such accommodations are asked to telephone the Dean's office, telephone 531.

400 COUNTIANS PARTICIPATE IN SWIM PROGRAM

More than 400 Adams countians, mostly youngsters, were given instruction in swimming during the swimming program which ended last week. Mrs. Lester Johnson, water safety chairman for the Adams County Red Cross, announced today.

Of that number 73 were presented with certificates for having successfully completed examinations given at the end of each course of instruction. A large number was unable to complete the entire course when rain forced postponement of classes. Those classes were to have been "made up" but were cancelled at the last moment when polo broke out in this section, Mrs. Johnson said.

Most outstanding of the swimmers developed during the past two years of Red Cross swimming classes is 12-year-old Suzanne Ziegler, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Earl Ziegler, South street, who this year won her Junior Life Saving card during the Red Cross classes at the Battlefield pool and then won her advanced swimmers' rating at Camp Nawakwa. The youngster, a beginner two years ago, now has to wait until she reaches the age of 16 before she can undergo examinations for Senior life saving, the highest certificate given here.

Senior Life Savers

Five youths won Senior life saving certificates during this summer's course; six won junior life saving; four secured swimmers' certificates, 14, intermediate swimmers, and 44, beginners' certificates.

Among the groups that were able to complete their courses were the Littlestown Girl Scout troops headed by Mrs. Dean Stover, Mrs. Bish and Miss Redding and the Littlestown Brownies headed by Mrs. Mary Kerchner. From Gettysburg were the Y-Teen club headed by Mrs. D. F. Putman; Delhawanis troop of Girl Scouts headed by Miss Margaret Wentz; the Cardinals Girl Scouts led by Mrs. Sterling Musselman; Brownies led by Mrs. Richard Lighter, Brownies led by Mrs. D. L. Norman and Cub pack headed by Mrs. J. Walter Coleman. The Caroline Codori Girl Scouts of Gettysburg, under direction of Mrs. L. F. Eisenberger were unable to complete their course due to rain.

Issue Stamps For Utah Centennial

Five thousand three cent stamps commemorating Utah's centennial went on sale this morning at the post office, Postmaster Lawrence E. Oyler announced.

The stamps have as a central design a picture of the first settlers entering the valley of the Great Salt Lake in 1847. On the left central portion of the stamp is the lettering, "This Is The Place" which is the statement attributed to Brigham Young when he arrived with the pioneers in Utah one hundred years ago.

No Bonded Debt

The school district at present has no bonded indebtedness but has an operational deficit of about $1,100. Its per capita tax last year was $4 and its school tax 14 mills. The board could raise that amount to 19 or more mills without going higher than the legal limit, or higher than some districts already are taxing.

With the money to be raised by the bond issue, together with sums raised by people of the town through various other activities, the school board plans to construct an addition to the rear of the present high school building, thus making it large enough to add a commercial department to the school and to take care of seventh and eighth grade students sent into the town from nearby townships.

1,000 GROWERS ATTEND ANNUAL OUTDOOR FETE

More than 1,000 fruit growers and their families, from Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia, were present today at the South Mountain Fair Grounds for the annual field day sponsored by the Adams County Fruit Growers Association.

Dr. Frank Cullinan, assistant chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, told the growers that research work in various fields is expected within the next "four or five years" insecticides and fungicides that will permit production of more than twice the amount of clean fruit now produced.

He added that other research is being carried out to help the growers in their perennial fight against their worst enemy—frost.

Describing how techniques for producing fruit have bettered in years since the turn of the century, how fruit growers who once used barrel sprayers are now able to purchase huge machinery to do a better and quicker job, he added that "even greater progress in the making of tools for fruit growing can be expected."

Available Soon

DDT and other spray materials produced in the past few years will be joined by other insecticides and fungicides now being tested by manufacturers and which will be released for sale as soon as they are proven safe for trees, fruit and man, he added.

Sheldon Funk, Boyertown, past president of the state horticultural association and one of the largest fruit growers in the state, urged the growers to expend their greatest efforts in "getting better foliage on the trees."

Warns Of Competition

Claiming that western fruit growers are able to control every detail of their fruit production, even down to moisture, and adding that the western fruit growers will soon be able to transport fruit to the eastern seaboard as cheaply as eastern growers can grow fruit and send it to markets nearby, Funk urged that they seek to produce larger crops by adding as much organic material to the soil of their orchards as possible.

YORK SPRINGS WILL VOTE ON SCHOOL BONDS

York Springs voters will be asked to vote "yes" or "no" on whether the borough school board should borrow $9,000 to build an addition to the town's high school.

Attorney Eugene V. Bulleit, who prepared the resolution for the school board said that it plans to publicize the resolution it passed at a recent board meeting to ask the borough to vote on whether it should borrow the sum of money and then will certify the resolution to the county election board, thus asking the board to prepare a special ballot for the borough on which the people of the town will signify their willingness or unwillingness for the board to go in debt.

That certification will probably take place at the next meeting of the board, to be held Monday. If the townsfolk vote "yes" on the question, then the board will advertise for bids on bonds totalling $9,000.

No details were immediately available as to how the town school system plans to pay off the proposed bonded indebtedness, although it was thought that setting aside five mills tax per year would cover the amount needed to pay off the issue.

MARSHALL PLAN AIDS STRICKEN; RED PLOT FAILS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Britain, France and other economically distressed nations of Western Europe are reaching for the prospective benefits of the Marshall rehabilitation project like drowning men grabbing for life-buoys.

For example: Authoritative sources in London stated yesterday that the government had under consideration the drastic course of spending some of England's $2,560,000,000 gold and dollar reserve as an emergency measure to deal with the difficult days which are expected to plague the country next winter. But the important point of this disclosure—and your special attention is drawn to it—is that the tapping of the reserve would be a stop-gap between the period when the $3,750,000,000 loan from the U.S.A. is exhausted about the end of the year and the time when the Marshall plan or some other American program of financial aid to Europe becomes effective.

Paralyzes Recovery

Yesterday, too, France made a new appeal to Russia in the United Nations economic and social council to join in implementing the Marshall plan. The Paris government, fighting to keep out of the grip of the powerful French Communist party, is greatly worried over Moscow's attitude. Delegate Georges Boris told the council that distrust between Russia and the western powers was paralyzing European economic recovery.

The Russian reply was to rebuke France for bringing the Marshall plan into a United Nations debate. White Russian Representative Kaminsky declared the economic and social council has no right to discuss the Marshall plan. He further said the plan was linked with German economy, which he maintained had no place on the agenda.

With the above as background I am going to set down here a sensational and, if substantiated, vast, important report which comes to me from a usually exceedingly well informed European source. You will recall that last May French Socialist Premier Ramadier dismissed from his coalition cabinet the five Communist ministers, after the National Assembly had given him a two-to-one vote of confidence in which Communist members dissented. Since then the Communists have been outside the government.

Deliberate Plot

It's clear that this split was the result of Communist refusal to collaborate. My source now tells me that the crisis was deliberately precipitated under orders from Moscow and the strategy was this:

It had just become apparent that the Russian wheat crop this year would be excellent, barring unforeseen contingencies. Possession of this breadstuff would provide a mighty bargaining weapon on a continent which, in many places, was hard pressed for food. France, for almost the first time in her history was short of bread.

Well, with that set-up the French Communists were to undertake a program of harassing the government. An important phase of the campaign would be the causing of labor troubles, the Reds being powerful in important trade unions. This would add further to the economic chaos of the nation. When autumn approached, and the government was beside itself with tribulations, ship loads of Russian wheat would be offered to the distressed country and the time would be ripe for the French Communist party to zoom into power on the gratitude of the populace and the weakness of the government.

There is one more item to be added. Last Sunday a communique was issued in Moscow giving the first authoritatively published news that the Soviet wheat crop is indeed excellent. There is grain for export.

THREE BRITISH SERGEANTS ARE HANGED BY JEWS

Jerusalem, July 30 (AP)—Irgun Zvai Leumi issued a "communiqué" today asserting that two British sergeants whom it kidnapped July 12 had been hanged in a forest near Natanya in reprisal for the execution of three Irgun members at Acre prison yesterday.

Shortly after the "communiqué" was issued from Tel Aviv, a police source there reported that the bodies of the two soldiers had been found. Official government sources, however, were not immediately able to confirm that the sergeants—Clifford Martin and Nordin Paice—had been slain.

In issuing its "communiqué," Irgun Zvai Leumi also disclosed that it had received an appeal for clemency from Paice's father, but said it had been ignored because it should have been directed "to those who refused clemency" to the executed Irgunists. "We cannot do anything about it," Irgun said the elder Paice had been told.

The underground Jewish organization asserted the Britons, seized at Natanya, were tried by a "military court" and convicted on charges of "illegal entry into Palestine, being members of an illegal British criminal terrorist organization known as the British Occupation Force in Palestine, which is responsible for the suppression of Jewish rights in Palestine and for the deportation of Jewish citizens from their home land."

As members of the British army, the sergeants also were accused by Irgun of what it called the "murder" of Jewish women and children and of "illegal possession" of arms.

Hagana, another Jewish underground agency of less violent leanings, was reported to have conducted an all night search for the sergeants despite the British curfew.

The Irgunists hanged by the British were Meir Nakar, Absalom Habib and Yacoub Weiss. The had been condemned for the shooting, bombing jail delivery at Acre prison May 4 in which 251 convicts were set free and 16 persons were killed.

POLIO SEASON STARTS; URGE 'UTMOST CARE'

Harrisburg, July 30 (AP)—Infantile paralysis cases in Pennsylvania are expected to remain close to normal this year by state health department officials.

Dr. J. Moore Campbell, deputy secretary of health, said that only 51 cases of the disease have been reported to date during 1947, scattered over 25 of the state's 67 counties.

He said twelve of these cases were reported during the past week, pointing out that the midsummer upswing of the disease is now in progress.

Dr. Campbell looks for the usual seasonal climb to develop during the next few weeks. "If we get by normally in the last two weeks of July and the first week of August, then I don't anticipate anything more than a normal year," he said.

However, the health official warned parents to take all possible precautions to guard their children from the dread disease and keep them from all sources of infection.

Dr. Campbell declared that dirty swimming pools, uncovered garbage cans, unprotected outhouses, and flies were all looked upon as possible sources of contamination.

The worst polio year in Pennsylvania history occurred in 1916 with a total of 2,181 cases reported, and the next worst came in 1944 when 1,417 cases were recorded.

10 WOMEN DIE IN EXPLOSION

Harrisburg, Va., July 30 (AP)—A terrific explosion originating in a one-story combination beauty shop and school snuffed out the lives of 10 women here yesterday, injured at least 30 other persons, shattered glass in a number of business establishments and homes and kept rescue workers toiling far into the night.

The weary rescue men, using power machinery and working in dust and smoke, ceased their search of the debris at 11 o'clock last night but planned to resume today in an effort to ascertain if more bodies might be hidden in the ruins of the beauty shop and a jewelry store which adjoined it on one side.

Nine of the women apparently were killed instantly while Miss Dorothy Gail Bowman, of Mount Jackson, getting a permanent wave as a 20th birthday present from her parents, died of injuries shortly afterward at Rockingham Memorial hospital. All were nearby residents.

The blast was felt as far away as four miles. Stained glass windows in a nearby Methodist church were blown out as were those in several homes and business establishments. Chief of Police Julius F. Ritchie said he looked out of his window and saw heavy black smoke all over the business area of this Shenandoah Valley town of 10,000 persons.

Tami Is Favored To Take Lesnevich

Brooklyn, July 30 (AP)—Gus Lesnevich, the light heavyweight champion who seems to improve with age, and Tami Mauriello, the cut down beer barrel from the Bronx, clash tonight in a non-title ten-rounder at Ebbets field with charity a certain winner and with the victor facing a possible quickie with Joe Louis later on in the year.

Some 25,000 fans are expected to pass the turnstiles for this lone big outdoor show of the season here and a get of around $125,000 is predicted. About $30,000 will go to the Damon Runyon memorial cancer fund while the two battlers will cut up 60 per cent between them.

Mauriello, having trimmed himself down to 197 pounds—some five pounds less than he carried in his last expedition—has been installed a five-to-seven favorite against the solid, former carpenter's mate from Cliffside Park, N. J.

Return To Work Without Contract

Eric, Pa., July 30 (AP)—Three hundred fishermen, members of Local 53, CIO-Fishermen and Allied Workers' union, voted to end a 10-month strike and return to their jobs—without contracts.

Ties for third and fifth places in the Community Softball league were created as the result of games played Tuesday evening.

The Texas Lunch moved into a tie with the Acme for third place by upsetting Knox's Store 7-3 in a well-played game on the college field. Ross Sachs hurled shutout ball for the lunchmen until the sixth when the Grocery-men tabbed three runs, two coming on a homerun by Frazer with a runner on base.

Rebounding from their surprise defeat at the hands of the Legion, the Moose tripped the Acme 7-1 on the high school field which forced the losers into a tie with the Texas Lunch. The losers pined 10 hits but Houck scattered the blows and allowed but one run.

The Elks punted out 15 hits, four by Bill Kuhn, to crush the Legion 9-2 in the opener on the high school field. The victory enabled the Elks to deadlock Knox's store for fifth place.

The undefeated State Highway outfit rolled to its 23rd straight win by tabbing 10 runs in the third inning to win 16-3 over Evans' store in the nightcap on the college field. Stambaugh and March hit home runs with two on in the big inning. George Fair pitched for the highway with Tayney and R. Phiel hurling for Evans' store.

The Trenton Giants took the first game of an interstate league double-header last night winning over the Hagerstown Owls 3 to 1 and then dropped the nightcap 5 to 4, their first loss in ten straight.

Lancaster's Red Roses handed Harrisburg and 8 to 3 setback to extend their winning streak to six. Les McCrabb was the winning hurler aided by six runs scored in the final three innings to wipe out an early Harrisburg lead.

The York White Roses nosed out the Wilmington Blue Rocks 5 to 4 in a heated baseball game which found the umpires requiring police protection after the contest. The victory ended York's seven game losing streak.

A scheduled game between Sunbury and Allentown was postponed because of rain.

Today's games: Lancaster at Harrisburg; Wilmington at York; Trenton at Hagerstown; Allentown at Sunbury (two games).

LOWLY PIRATES BREAK RECORDS IN ATTENDANCE

(By DUKE MORAN)
Pittsburgh, July 30 (AP)—This city of the big smoke has developed a baseball bug which seems tougher to discourage than the fanatical fans along Brooklyn's Gowanus canal.

A phenomenon of the 1947 major league baseball season which has owners of both circuits incredulous is the home attendance at Pittsburgh Pirates games where the fans watch a club which has wallowed at or near the bottom of the National league since early in the season.

The turnstiles at Forbes field in 43 games have clicked off 817,474 paid admissions, 58,145 more than the total for all of last year. With 35 home games left, including the playoff of a tie, the all-time home record of 869,720 attendance seems certain to be eclipsed. The Bucs' best mark was set in 1927, the last pennant year.

Now the club needs to average only 1,493 paid admissions per game to beat it. The first million fan attendance is not beyond possibilities. To reach this dizzy figure, the Pirates must average 5,216 fans per game, compared to an average attendance of 19,011 to date.

The crowds have kept pouring in without the stimuli of mirrors, fireworks or girly shows. They just want to see baseball, even if the home club brand often is indifferent baseball.

That sort of loyalty challenges the best that Brooklyn can produce. There the fans at least have a pennant contender to cheer about.

"I can't explain it," declared Roy Hamey, Pirate general manager. "Maybe it's because the fans feel like we do—and many other club owners do—that the Pirates are better than a seventh place club, despite their position in the standings."

"The amazing thing is that it doesn't stop. Why, Al (Al Schlenker, club treasurer) right now is snowed under with ticket applications.

"I do know that this is a truly great sports city. I've always said it's the third best franchise in the league—yielding only to New York and Chicago and that's because of population."

Mystifies Manager
"I never saw such a display of loyalty," Hamey continued. "I don't know how it could be better. When the fans aren't mad—they're just unhappy. They've been very sympathetic. I guess they know we've tripped, even if things haven't worked out."

Then, too, Hamey pointed out there are "some features" of the club which would bring out fans. These include big Hank Greenberg, home run sacker Ralph Kiner and third baseman Frankie Gustine.

It's nice of Roy to give the boys a pat on the back but the Buccos had such diamond greats as Poe Traynor and the Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, on clubs which pennant contenders and the crowds didn't break down the gates to show their esteem for these worthies.

Majeski Is Not Seriously Injured

Philadelphia, July 30 (AP)—Henry (Hank) Majeski, Philadelphia Athletics' third baseman, apparently escaped serious injury when he was felled by a pitched ball in last night's game with the Chicago White Sox, doctors at Graduate hospital said today.

Majeski was struck on the back of the head as he failed to duck completely away from a high inside fast ball thrown by White Sox hurler Earl Harrist in the fourth inning with the bases loaded.

Physicians at the hospital, to which Majeski was removed on a stretcher, said preliminary examination showed no serious damage but that a further study will be made today.

SET PLAYOFFS IN SOUTH PENN FOR AUGUST 3

Games will be played at Benneauville and Bruchtown next Sunday afternoon to determine positions for the final championship playoffs in the South Penn Baseball league. It was decided at a meeting of league officials Tuesday evening at the American Legion home here.

Cashtown will play at Benneauville to determine the first and second place teams, both teams finishing the regular league schedule with records of 11 wins and three defeats.

Barlow will oppose Bruchtown in the battle for fourth place and the right to participate in the round robin title series. Each had a record of six wins and eight defeats.

Heidersburg clinched third place with 10 wins and four defeats. The round robin playoffs for the league championship will get underway on Sunday, August 10, with the first and third-place teams meeting in a three-game semi-final series and the second and fourth-place clubs in a similar series. The championship series will also consist of three games. All tilts will be played on Sunday afternoons.

All teams of the league were represented at the meeting with the exception of Gettysburg. President Roy Shanbrook presided. Forfeit money was returned to the teams.

Rodney Taylor, manager of the Wenksville team which was eliminated from the league race through the forfeit of a number of games due to using an ineligible player, announced his team would like to card a game with the league champion.

Greenburg On Bench At His Own Request
Pittsburgh, July 30 (AP)—Hank Greenberg, American league home run king of 1946, has been sitting on the Pittsburgh Pirate bench the last three games at his own request "for the good of the club."

"I haven't been hitting," Hank told Manager Billy Herman, "so you might as well take me out for a while."

In Greenberg's last 14 games, he got five hits in 36 trips for a weak .134 batting average. His season mark is .257.

While Greenberg rested, in hope of a comeback later, Elbie Fletcher held down Hank's regular post at first base.

Frankie Gustine now leads both major leagues in total hits, with 123. In extending his consecutive hitting streak to 21 last night, Gustine tied the National league season record set by Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn. Frankie got four singles in five trips to the plate against Boston last night.

EASTERN LEAGUE

(By The Associated Press)
The Williamsport Tigers, beaten eight times by the Wilkes-Barre Barons, rose up last night in the ninth inning to score nine times for a 12-11 victory.

Ray Girley caged the Tigers for eight frames, then gave three successive passes to fill the bases and start the Eastern league's second-place Barons on the way to defeat. The leading Utica Blue Sox meanwhile staked an 18-hit attack on the Binghamton Triplets, for a 17-1 rout.

At Albany, the Hartford Chiefs' Tim Triner hurled a five-hit shut-out, beating the Senators, 6-0.

Roger Wright of the Scranton Miners won 2-0 in a pitching duel with the Elmira Pioneers' Jim Mains.

Johnstown Snaps Eric Win Streak

(By The Associated Press)
The Johnstown Johnnies snapped the Erie Sailors' six-game win streak last night, defeating the Tars 12-7 in a Middle Atlantic league contest.

The Niagara Falls Frontiers downed the Uniontown Coal Barons, 8-4, behind the four-hit pitching of Hugh Grimshaw and Tony Busco. The league-leading Vandergrift Pioneers defeated the Youngstown Colts, 8-5, with Francis Lash giving up only six hits.

Oil City came from behind in the last of the ninth to score twice on two walks, an error and two hits and defeat the Butler Yankees 8-7.

BROOKLYN FANS ORDERING WORLD SERIES TICKETS

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

Flatbush faithful today were exhibiting haste to order World Series tickets, with hardly a soul in Brooklyn holding any doubt over the Dodgers' participation in the October classic.

They had plenty to support their contention. For last night the Brooks, behind the superb pitching of Rookie Harry Taylor, whipped the St. Louis Cardinals, chief threat to their pennant hopes, 4-0.

Yesterday's victory increased the Dodgers' National league lead over the runner-up Redbirds to eight full games and stretched their current victory string to 11 straight, the highest streak in the league this season.

One-Man Show
It was strictly a one-man show as Taylor hurled and clubbed the Cards into submission. On the mound, Taylor held the runless Cards to three hits to register his ninth win against three losses. At the plate he drove in the first Dodger tally in the sixth inning with a squeeze bunt. He batted in two more in the eighth with a tremendous triple and carried the final run in himself a moment later when Second Baseman Al Schoendienst erred on Ed Stanky's grounder. The triple came with two out after Peeewe Reese was purposely passed to get at him.

The New York Giants remained in third place, nine games behind the first, when they nipped the Cincinnati Reds 2-1 in a night game at Cincinnati. Will Marshall's 26th home run proved to be the deciding run.

Held to two hits for six innings, the Chicago Cubs broke loose with a five-run attack in the seventh to defeat Philadelphia 5-4 for their 13th success in 14 games with the Phils.

Ernie Bonham, ex-American league pitcher, won his ninth game against three defeats this season as he pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-5 victory over the fourth-place Boston Braves in a night game at Pittsburgh. A four-run third inning against Bill Voiselle sewed up the victory. Third Baseman Frank Gustine of the Pirates made four hits in five times at bat to extend his consecutive hitting streak to 21 games.

At the head of the column, mounted on horseback, rode Tyson Tipton, chief marshal, having as his aide, James A. Aumen.

Clerk Ties Knot: J. R. Hartman, clerk of the local courts, Saturday afternoon, performed the first marriage since the beginning of the year. Charles P. Kehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. The first stop will be made at the Rice, Huber and Smith orchard, just north of Bendersville.

Town Assured of Summer Resort:
A business deal was closed Thursday by a number of Gettysburg men with Robert Witherow, Cumberland township, for the purchase of 20 acres of land on both sides of Marsh Creek, near Witherow's Mill, where a summer resort which is expected to rival, in popularity, the summer colony near Dick's Dam, will be located, when improvements are completed.

Fire Company Is 114 Years Old:
In a history of the town of Gettysburg it appears that the first fire company was organized in this place 114 years ago, or in 1808. At that time, the history relates, the equipment was poor, but the men were natural fire fighters and succeeded in hanging up quite a record for efficiently extinguishing all conflagrations.

The first frame engine house was erected in the year 1809 and in 1832 an engine was purchased, which was called "Guard."

Today's Talk

ONE DAY AT A TIME

We are creatures of habit. Habit rules us—and often damages us in a tragic manner. There is one habit, however, that can serve only a great and good end. It is this: Live one day at a time. Sounds simple and easy. Few put it into practice.

The yesterdays are gone. Nothing can be done about them, excepting their lessons. The tomorrows aren't here, and when they do appear, they will take care of themselves. But today, this day—live it. Enjoy it. Profit by it. It is an important link in the span of your life. Live it and it alone. Make it the one dominating habit of your life. One day at a time!

Each new day makes the sum of the days that much shorter. So it is that each new day takes on an added importance and opportunity. This day shall never dawn again! How would we live it were it to be our very last day? We couldn't afford to clutter it up with worries, regrets, and misgivings. We would want it to be a clean, hopeful, and useful day. Why not always live it as though it were to be our last day—and our best?

You cannot do two or three things at a time and do each efficiently. Nor can we treat our days as though mixed, past and future, were being lived with the one day that should be lived by itself and alone.

What a day it would be for us all, if we could exclaim with Walt Whitman: "Ah, the glory of the day's work, whether with hand or brain!" Making each day, not only lived as a separate unit of life, but as something significant and special, something to be noted and praised.

You can almost see half a dozen days hanging upon the very faces of some people, and even carrying several under their arms! On the other hand, the free man, living that day of his joyously as though it were the only day of his life, shows triumph in his eyes and countenance, and in the spring of his step. You feel like following him to learn his secret—but that secret is simple—he's living but one day at a time!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Art and Life."

The Poet of the People

INSTEAD OF GRUMBLING
I have had my share of trouble, but I've had my share of fun.
I have lost my share of golf games, but my share of them I've won.
I've had joys and I've had sorrows.
I've had luck both good and bad.
But if I remember surely more of good than ill I've had.
And, for this I should be grateful 'till away from earth I pass.
More than once when I've been fishing I have hooked a three-pound bass.

It's a human trait to grumble over setbacks and complain;
To remember hurts and losses and the times when hope was vain.
Men are proud and boastful creatures, and the very lucky chance is forgotten all too quickly, when to fortune they advance.
Still good luck deserves recalling, so I tell the grumbling class:
More than once when I've been fishing I have hooked a three-pound bass.

I've encountered disappointment and I've suffered failure's sting.
I've had losses; I've been beaten; known the worst the years can bring.
But the balance seems the greater on the fair side, not the bad.
And there's many and many a pleasure I am grateful for and glad.

And, I'm sure I shall remember 'till above me grows the grass:
More than once when I've been fishing I have hooked a three-pound bass.

START SOON ON FRUIT LAB AT ARENDTSVILLE

With specifications for the building expected to be turned over to the committee in charge on Thursday and with other specifications to be ready within the very near future, the new fruit laboratory to be erected at Arendtsville should be underway soon, members of the South Mountain Fruit Research Laboratory said today. The laboratory will cost about $40,000.

Present plans call for construction on the new building to begin this fall with the work to be completely probably by next spring.

The 14 acres of land bought on the northwest edge of Arendtsville for the laboratory have been put in use this year, with the research scientists at the old laboratory in the land there for the beginnings of a number of experiments to be conducted during the period of years.

The laboratory ground, on the former A. D. Sheely property, has 120 foot frontage on the street and then extends back, widening into a wedge shape.

Concrete And Brick
Of concrete block and steel with brick facings, the laboratory building will be 67 by 37½ feet with a full basement and one main floor. It will have four offices and three laboratories on the main floor and an office and laboratory in the basement. A shop, a meeting room that will seat about 75 people, a temperature and humidity control room, a dark room and utility rooms also will be constructed inside the building.

In back of the building will be six garages, four storage sheds, a greenhouse and an insectary. All will be grouped around a courtyard.

Directors of the South Mountain Laboratory corporation include M. E. Knouse, president; Robert C. Lott, secretary; Harvey B. Raffensperger, treasurer; R. C. McDonald, Galen Gates and Russell Shaw.

Growers Provide Funds
The corporation was set up by fruit growers throughout Adams, York and Franklin counties in order to provide better facilities for the laboratory staff and thus provide for more far reaching experiments than could be carried out in the present building.

The fruit growers are putting up the money for the building and land and will be repaid in the form of rental over a period of years by State college. When the $40,000 is paid off the building, land, etc., will revert to State college.

The present laboratory is a former school building now owned by Mrs. R. C. Walton, Biglerville. It was a township school which was replaced when Arendtsville set up its school system and built its present structures. The laboratory has been jammed into the small present building for over two decades.

Livestock Prices Reach New Highs

Substantial advances in grain prices, coupled with increased farm labor costs and unexpectedly heavy consumer demand for red meat has sent Pennsylvania livestock prices to a record high of 320 per cent of 1909-1914 levels, State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst announced today.

Federal-State surveys revealed an advance of 19 points in the index of prices received by farmers for meat animals, from 301 to 320, considering 1909-1914 average as 100. Dairy products dropped one point while poultry and eggs advanced seven points, holding the index of all livestock and livestock produced to 260, an increase of five points for the period, Secretary Horst pointed out. The index of prices for all farm products advanced seven points to 260.

Crops advanced 13 points to an index of 261.

MORE MACHINES BEING USED

Increased mechanization of Pennsylvania farms to assist in overcoming the high cost and shortage of skilled farm labor was reported today by Miles Horst, State Secretary of Agriculture.

As an outstanding example, he cited recent Federal-State surveys that disclosed a substantial advance in the use of combination harvesting and threshing machines that operate in ripened fields of small grains, compared with pre-war use of such machines which are known as "combines."

More Combines In Use
In 1938 only six per cent of the 1,019,000 acres of wheat grown that year in Pennsylvania was harvested with combines; 92 per cent was harvested with binders and the sheaves carried to a threshing machine at the barn or in the field. By 1945 combines were used to harvest and thresh 35 per cent of the 932,000 acres of wheat, nearly all of it being cut and threshed as standing grain. The remaining 65 per cent was threshed in the old-fashioned type of machine or was cut and fed to livestock without being threshed.

Similarly, there is increased use of combines to harvest and thresh other small grains in a single operation. In 1938 only four per cent of the oats crop in Pennsylvania was harvested with combines. In 1945 this method accounted for the harvesting of 30 per cent. According to available records, combines in 1945 were used on 40 per cent of the Pennsylvania barley acreage, 30 per cent of the rye and 29 per cent of the buckwheat.

COUNTY'S FARM PRICES REMAIN AT HIGH LEVEL

Adams county's farm prices are beginning to level off, the quarterly chart of sales recorded in the county shows, but farm prices in the upper end continue to be among the highest in the county.

One Hamilton township farm brought the highest price of any farm sold in the county during the three-month period from April 1 to June 30, with the purchaser giving $145 per acre for the property.

The lowest price was $44 an acre for a Liberty township farm and the largest number of sales, six, was in Mount Pleasant township. The largest number of acres sold, 440, was in Straban township.

Average Price $80

There were 45 sales recorded during the three months, totaling 3,598 acres. The average sized farm sold was 80 acres and the average price per farm was $6,427, making the average price $80 per acre which is slightly more than $1 less per acre than the average for January 1 to March 31, but $11 higher than for the same period, April 1 to June 30, a year ago and $34 above the average for the same period in 1942. Nearly one half the sales, 21 of them, were financed in whole or in part by mortgages which amounted to an average of nearly 70 per cent of the purchase price.

The 24 cash sales averaged $75 per acre and the 21 properties on which mortgages were placed to help finance the purchase averaged $87 per acre. The average debt was $61 per acre. Six of the properties were mortgaged for the entire amount, and the sales averaged $112 per acre. The 11 mortgaged for over 50 per cent of the purchase price were bought for an average of $80 per acre, with the average debt $48 per acre and the four mortgaged for less than 50 per cent were bought at an average of $72 per acre, with an average debt of $26 per acre.

More Bargaining
Observers checking the chart pointed out today that there is some leveling off in the prices paid throughout the county and that there is more bargaining on the part of buyers. Where a few months ago buyers were willing to pay the first price named, now there is a greater tendency on the part of many buyers to attempt to push the price down before buying. There is a greater feeling, too, that the peak in prices has been reached, the farm experts point out, adding that in some cases owners lost money in selling their farms. In one case during the three months an owner who had held a property for less than a year sold it for $2,500 less than the amount he had originally paid for it.

STATE IS HIGH IN PRODUCTION OF CORN, WHEAT

A recent check-up by the State Department of Agriculture reveals that Pennsylvania farmers are growing more corn and wheat per acre than the national average for those crops, including yields in the great midwestern corn and wheat growing states.

For the 10-year period, 1935 to 1944, the average yield of corn per acre in Pennsylvania was 40.9 bushels, whereas the national average for that period was only 29.5 bushels, Federal-State records reveal.

Over the same 10-year period, the farmers of Pennsylvania grew an average of 20.1 bushels of wheat per acre compared with the national average of 15.3 bushels, a difference of almost five bushels.

Higher Yield Than West
State Secretary of Agriculture, Miles Horst declares that in a poor year in Pennsylvania the farmers usually produce as much or more wheat per acre than farmers in specialized wheat growing areas average in good years.

In the past eight years the lowest wheat yield in Pennsylvania was 17 bushels per acre. It was exceeded only once during the period by Kansas, the leading winter wheat state. Last year the Pennsylvania wheat average was 22.5 bushels compared with 16.2 bushels per acre in Kansas.

Reports 54 per cent Gain—R. H. Olmstead, in charge of dairy extension, the Pennsylvania State College, reports that in the first four months this year 40,000 dairy cows were bred artificially in Pennsylvania, or nearly 54 per cent more than the 26,035 bred in the same period during the corresponding period in 1946. He expects that approximately the same rate of gain may be maintained for the whole of 1947.

25th Poultry Meeting—The 25th annual Poultry Conference, embracing the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, will be held October 20 to 23 at Pennsylvania State College with a program, including a banquet, arranged jointly by Federation officials and staff members of the College poultry department.

Roses Get Thirsty—The rose bed needs a thorough soaking at least once a week for a satisfactory crop of blooms, informs A. O. Rasmussen, extension ornamental horticulturist of the Pennsylvania State College. A liberal application of fertilizer in the Spring will suffice for the whole season.

4-H Ready For Big Rally—Annual Club Week, August 11 to 14, at the Pennsylvania State College, promises four days of "education, inspiration, and recreation" for some 1,000 4-H boys and girls who will attend, says Allen L. Banker, State club leader, of the College.

Biggest in State—The 17-member Franklin County 4-H Pig Feeding Club has 142 porkers fattening for market, the largest number of any 4-H pig club in the State.

Spray Hollyhocks—Spraying hollyhocks with bordeaux mixture, especially the underside of the leaves, will help prevent the spread of rust disease.

Feeds For Molting Layers

One of the most critical periods in the life of a laying hen is the time when she is completing her annual growth of new feathers and beginning to resume egg production. Experience shows that there is an exceptionally high mortality rate among yearling and older hens when they approach normal laying after molting with bodies deficient from the huge drain of nutrients used in manufacturing their new dress. Many organic disturbances develop at this time which later lead to death or an unprofitable condition. Most of these dangers may be wholly escaped by proper feeding before, during and immediately after the molting period.

What kinds of feed does a laying hen need when she is going into her annual molt? What nutrients are required to manufacture feathers?

By natural inheritance the hen needs almost the identical ingredients in her ration to grow her new feathers as she requires to make eggs. Of course, it has too frequently been the custom among small flock owners to feed a well balanced egg-producing ration as long as the hens continued to lay profitably. But, when she began to lose her old feathers and egg production declined toward the zero point, she was often indirectly punished for her seasonal "strike" by being placed on a hit-or-miss ration of "any kind of feed."

Like eggs, feather manufacture calls for the ingredients in her feed which the hen must use in the feathers. She is not capable of any nutritional miracles. She can pull no fancy proteins or vitamins or minerals out of her faulty rations like the magician pulls rabbits from a hat. If she is to manufacture a new dress of feathers and not deplete seriously her physical store of lime and proteins and fats, she must receive the necessary ingredients in her daily feed.

One of the most important of these nutrients is lime; the next or even the first is a liberal supply of proteins. In fact, as already suggested, the hen's ration immediately before her molting period, during that critical interim, and when she begins to lay again should consist of a well balanced mash, such as she needs when in heavy egg production.

If she has constant access to a standard mash in which there is a safe percentage of proteins, and if she enjoys lime in her mash as well as a supply available from which she can eat extra helpings, the molting hen will need plenty of green feed, fresh water, sunshine and enough grain to maintain her normal body weight. Green vegetation supplies considerable vitamin A in addition to minerals. Alfalfa leaf meal in the mash reduces the need of green feed but does not eliminate it. Likewise milk helps take the place of some of the green feed.

Unseasonably early molting may be caused by reducing the laying ration's balance after hot mid-summer weather results in lowered egg production. If hens have access to a range and hot, dry weather kills off or render unpalatable their green forage, they should have extra daily feedings of lettuce, carrots, cabbage, clover or alfalfa clippings or other tasty green vegetation. It is evident from experimental feeding that green feeds play an important role in poultry molting.

Used Hughes' Name To Have Big Time

Chicago, July 30 (AP)—A high school youth who posed as "Howard Hughes, Jr." and ran up a $166 hotel and automobile bill before his true identity was discovered, told police "I just wanted a big time."

Policeman Herbert Killackey, juvenile officer, who identified the youth as Glen Cordes, 15, said the boy's father, Gilbert Cordes, a carpenter, paid the bills for the week-end party.

Killackey said they included rental of a $40-a-day penthouse suite in a

Powdery Mildew on Roses—Powdery mildew, which gives the flowers and leaves of rambler roses and other flowers a whitish cast, has been showing up in a number of places in the State, reports Allen H. Bauer, extension plant pathologist of the Pennsylvania State College. Weekly applications of a sulphur dust, he says, will control this disease.

One in Twenty—About one out of every twenty of the approximately 20,000 boys and girls engaged in 4-H Club work in the State will attend the 23rd annual 4-H Club Week August 11 to 14 at the Pennsylvania State College, according to Allen L. Baker, of the college, State club leader. Limited facilities restrict the attendance.

Tip for Gardeners—When rooting cuttings in water, keep the water relatively shallow and changed frequently to provide ample oxygen, advises A. O. Rasmussen, extension ornamental horticulturist of the Pennsylvania State College. By using containers impervious to light, green slime will not collect.

Safety Year-round—Recent observance of National Farm Safety

Michigan avenue hotel; steak dinners and champagne for young Cordes and two friends and rental of a limousine.

Week should serve as a constant reminder of the need for practicing safety throughout the whole year, says John R. Haswell, extension agricultural engineer of the Pennsylvania State College.

Erosion Control Taking Hold—The increasing use of effective erosion control practices on Pennsylvania farms can be attributed in large measure, say Penn State extension agronomists, to the cumulative effect of long-term educational effort.

Remove Seed Heads—Removal of seed heads, especially in the rock garden, will save much work caused by self-sown seedlings later on. Old flower heads should be removed from rhododendron and lilacs.

TOWN HAS RAIN AND ATTORNEY WINS HIS BET

Waynesburg, Pa., July 30 (AP)—Waynesburg's 72-year-old tradition of "it always rains here on July 29" (except on rare occasions) was upheld last night as a few stray drops of moisture spattered down on South Morgan street.

Rumors that someone with a garden hose had sprinkled the street from a nearby roof were vigorously denied by five witnesses.

Maj. E. W. Phralls of nearby Spragtown vouchsafed he wasn't even interested in the debate, not being a resident of Waynesburg, and that he saw the rain with his own eyes. And so did Mrs. Phralls.

They had been shopping here and were just starting home when they came to their car, parked on South Morgan street, and found the windshield, as well as the top, covered with rain.

Patrolman Edward Murray, patrolling on South Morgan, confirmed the Phralls' story, as did two other unprejudiced witnesses.

Gets Crosby's Hat
Attorney John Daily, chief of the Waynesburg rain-makers and fourth in line of a series of July 29 weather prophets (all of them pro-rain), won a hat from comedian Bob Hope as a result of the sprinkle. It will be a real souvenir as Hope has promised to deliver up "Bing Crosby's best hat."

It was a recoup for Rainmaker Daily. He lost a hat to ex-heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey when it failed to rain July 29 last year — one of the four occasions in 72 years when Waynesburg's sidewalks were not dampened on this date.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent uric acid passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. ## A Statement To Our Customers About Resale

PRICES of PRODUCTS

Built by International Harvester Company

Here at Harvester we are concerned over the fact that a growing number of our products are appearing on the resale market at greatly inflated prices.

As manufacturers, we try to produce at the lowest possible cost. We cannot set the prices at which our products—tractors, motor trucks, farm implements, refrigeration, and industrial power equipment—are sold. We can and do suggest list prices which the great majority of our dealers adopt as their retail prices.

$20,000,000 Price Reduction
Our basic price policy was publicly stated in March, 1947, when we announced price reductions at the rate of approximately $20,000,000 per year on our products. At that time, Fowler McCormick, Chairman of the Board, said: "ANY PRICE IS TOO HIGH IF IT CAN BE REDUCED."

Practically all of our dealers cooperated with this policy and passed on the savings to their customers.

The objective of the price reductions was to make it possible for customers to buy our products, which they need so badly, at lower prices. Naturally, this purpose is defeated when our products are sold by anybody at inflated prices.

IH Production at All-Time Peak
Inflated prices are caused by the difference between supply and demand. To increase supply, we now have the greatest number of employees in history on our payrolls—almost 90,000 in the United States, as against about 60,000 prewar. Large new plants are getting into production in Louisville, Evansville, and Melrose Park. A fourth will soon be in operation in Memphis. The men and women now employed are turning out the greatest quantities of IH products of all kinds that we have ever made. These are also the finest products we have ever made, and recognition of that fact is an important contributing factor to the demand for them.

Distribution to Dealers

But even record-breaking production is not sufficient to give your dealer—and other IH dealers—enough products to meet today's demand. We have tried to make the fairest possible geographical allocation of our products so that every dealer would get a fair share, and we know that dealers, in most cases, have tried earnestly to make the fairest possible distribution to their customers.

But we also know that many of our products—far too many—are being resold at inflated prices. The public criticism and resentment of these resales are of real concern to us, as we know they must be to our dealers, because such reactions endanger the good will of both the dealer and the Company in any community.

Distribution to Customers

Experience shows that many IH new products are being resold by users who decide they can continue to make out with their old equipment after they have had an inflated offer for their new equipment. To eliminate this, many dealers are taking measures to be sure that equipment purchased is for their customers' own use and is not to be resold.

Nearly all IH dealers, we believe, are now using the basis of PRESENT NEED as their primary guide for the sale of scarce products. The customer whose need is real and urgent is not likely to resell.

What Price Should You Pay?

While it may take a little more time to get delivery, we urge our customers to consider all of the factors mentioned here, before paying more than the list price for any IH product. Any IH dealer or branch can furnish the suggested list price for any IH product.

We know that the overwhelming majority of IH dealers are as much opposed to inflated prices as we are. In the public interest, we have already asked their cooperation—and are now asking the cooperation of customers—in correcting this situation.

Dear Susan Brown

Chapter 28

It was Tuesday and the hot party was over, except for farewells and possible repercussions. Steve Gellis, meticulously dressed in a gray business suit and looking incredibly young and put upon, was waiting for the guests to come down, say good-bye, and move on. He was hoping to get the ordeal over with as quickly as possible.

He paused in his pacing, looked at his wrist-watch, and sat down with a sigh of disgust. It was ten o'clock. He had been waiting there for twenty minutes. That was too long, much too long, to wait for a group of people who had been royally entertained at no expense to themselves and who, apparently, had no going-home sense. Why didn't they come on downstairs, say their say, and go back to wherever they had come from?

Once more Steve looked at his wrist-watch. Another sixty seconds had passed. The J. Howard Cranstons, he recalled, were supposed to leave early in order to catch a twelve o'clock bus out of New York. They had been provided with train tickets, but Cranston, the old gas-bag, had insisted upon returning home by bus.

"If he doesn't get a move on," Steve muttered now, "he'll miss the bus."

He frowned as it suddenly occurred to him that, even after getting a move on, he himself had missed a bus, romantically speaking. After the conversation with John Bates two days ago, he had come into the house firmly resolved to find Susan, tell her he loved her, and ask her to marry him. He was not one to make hasty decisions, but once he made up his mind he wanted speedy action.

But he had been frustrated at every turn. It was a technique new to the young man, who had been so absorbed in his business that he had taken no time out for romance. Girls had always been eager—almost too eager—to win favor with Stephen Gellis. As a rule, like the Murchison girl, they got into his hair. In a way, he rather liked this new role of pursuer. It was unique in his experience with women, to say the least.

Susan had not been too obvious in her avoidance of him. She simply maneuvered things so they would not be together. At first it had amused and intrigued him. Now it was beginning to irritate him. He had a good notion to send for Susan Brown and tell her that her next assignment was marriage. After all, she was still on his payroll. He was still the boss. Or was he? He was beginning to doubt it. Certainly there was more to this love business than he'd realized.

He got up from his chair as he heard voices out in the hallway. At long last the Cranstons were coming. Well, it was high time. He contrived a smile of greeting as the couple entered the room, followed by Susan and Mrs. Tremont. An instant later the Mansfields appeared, also dressed for traveling. Jack Mansfield was struggling under the weight of two large suitcases. Ellen Mansfield was carrying a briefcase, presumably containing her life story.

"So you're leaving us now too, Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield?" he asked by way of conversation. "I thought you were taking a later train." Ellen Mansfield did not deign to answer, nor did her husband. Jack avoided Steve's eyes, while Ellen lifted her head in the air and sniffed, as if she smelled something peculiarly obnoxious.

Steve recalled that only the previous evening he had refused—oh, very politely, of course—to read Ellen's story, but there was no point in the two of them getting huffy about it.

J. Howard Cranston stepped forward and grasped Steve's hand, shook it vigorously, and belatedly:

"Well, old-timer, we're leaving you. We've had a mighty fine time, though I'll admit I wouldn't live in this neck of the woods if you gave it to me."

"Now, J. Howard," Mrs. Cranston protested weakly. "We've had a wonderful time, dearie," she told Susan. "I'll never forget it as long as I live. I'm sure Howard won't either. He's just a big tease."

"You said it," boomed Cranston. "Yes, we've had a great old time. Gellis, if you ever come out to God's country, look me up. We'll paint the town red. New York's got nothing on Lincoln hasn't got. Don't let anybody tell you different."

"That goes for you too, little lady," he said with false generosity. "Bring that hubby of yours out. Let him get acquainted with some strong, silent men."

Susan was trembling with rage, but she managed to hold back the angry retort that rose to her lips.

She watched the Cranstons go out to the station wagon; then her eyes met Steve's in mute appeal. He smiled reassuringly, as if he understood.

Ellen Mansfield, not to be outdone by Elsie Cranston, came over and kissed Susan on the cheek. "Thanks for everything, dear Miss Brown. You're been very sweet to us."

Jack Mansfield, after a quick glance at his wife, put down the suitcases and shook hands with Susan and Mrs. Tremont. "Thanks for everything," he repeated, parrot-like.

"Come on, dear," said Ellen Mansfield, frowning her impatience. "The Cranstons are in a hurry. We mustn't hold them up." With that, she sailed out the door, without even so much as a glance at the astonished Steve Gellis.

Steve ran his hand through his hair in a peculiarly boyish gesture. At the moment he looked like anything but the self-assured man of the world he was supposed to be.

"Well, I'll be a so-and-so," he sputtered. "Of all the impossible people! You'd have thought I had smallpox, or something. Gosh, I'll be glad when they all get out of the house. Susie, you should teach your correspondents better manners. Where did we find such people anyhow?"

Chapter 29

He looked so woebegone that Susan could not take offense, though she did say, "I wouldn't know about that. You selected them—remember?"

"That's right," he nodded, grinning. "It was something about circulation figures, wasn't it?" he added in a bantering tone. "Maybe I should have my head examined—eh, Susie?"

"Maybe," Susan laughed. "But if you think the Mansfields behaved shabbily, you don't know the half of it. Tell him, Mrs. Tremont, I haven't got the heart. Better break it to him gently, or he might go out and cut his throat."

"You tell him, Susan. You might be able to soften the blow," Mrs. Tremont was smiling, although it was clear that she was a little worried.

Steve, however, refused to be serious. Now that four of the guests were gone and the others were going, he felt considerably better about the whole thing. Also, Susan seemed to be in a much friendlier mood—and that was the biggest help of all.

"What is all this anyhow?" he demanded in the same bantering voice. "Just what's happened now in this little comedy of errors? Don't tell me the Gaineses have run off with the silver, or that the Peytons are acting up? The Peytons are my idea of what a happily married couple should look like, even if little Annie is the world's champion liar."

"Oh, the Peytons are all right," Mrs. Tremont hastened to assure him. "They're nice young people and deeply in love. Anne Peyton just wanted a honeymoon, like other girls. They'll be leaving in a little while. A friend of theirs is driving down from Springfield to pick them up."

Susan was trying hard not to laugh. This latest development was not amusing, she kept telling herself. But it did no good at all, and suddenly she was laughing until the tears were coming out of her eyes. Steve was watching her as if she'd gone out of her mind, and Mrs. Tremont was staring at her accusingly.

"It's the Gaineses—Bella and Frank," she announced between giggles. "They're the kind that come early and stay late. They were the first to get here—remember?"

Steve nodded. "Well?"

"They don't want to go home," returned Susan, still laughing. "Bella said they'd just started having a good time. Said Steve is such a wonderful host they wanted to stay on a few days. They haven't even started to pack!" She almost added, "And I haven't either."

"I don't see anything so funny about it," Mrs. Tremont, who was seated in one of the big chairs, got up. "It's disgraceful."

"It—it's such a good joke on Steve," Susan wiped the tears from her eyes with a blue linen handkerchief which she took out of her dress pocket. "He selected the winners—he and Linda Murchison. Thought they were smart. And now their guests have gone on a sit-down strike, because they don't want to go home!"

Steve's face flushed with resentment, but he said nothing. He did not relish the idea of being laughed at, and the coupling of his name with Linda's he decided, was unfair. Susan should know without being told that he had no interest in Linda.

"They're going home—and soon," Mrs. Tremont announced with sudden decision. "Mr. Gellis has given them a wonderful week. He's spent a lot of money and a lot of time entertaining them. He's had a lot of headaches. It's a shame for them to abuse his hospitality like this. I intend to go up and have a talk with them. And you, Susan, should be ashamed of yourself for laughing like that. What's come over you? I've never seen you so ill-mannered. One would think you'd encouraged these people to stay."

"Oh, but I didn't! And I am ashamed. But I—I just couldn't help it." Susan got up from the divan and started to follow Mrs. Tremont. "Sorry, Steve. I'll go up and tell them the party's over, Mrs. Tremont. You don't need to do it."

The woman motioned her back

Diplomats here noted that this was the second time within a few weeks that the Russians have acted in a way which clearly and decisively set them apart from the Western democracies.

The first of the two incidents occurred at Paris when Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov flatly rejected the Marshall plan for European recovery.

The importance of the two developments taken together, some diplomatic experts here suggest, is that the Soviets now appear to have reached the point at which they no longer consider it necessary to make a show of striving for unity with the Western democracies.
